Promoting Fundamental British Values at Parkgate Primary School

At Parkgate Primary School, we are committed to promoting the fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, mutual respect and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs.

These values are central to our school ethos and help prepare our pupils to become respectful, responsible and active citizens. They are embedded throughout school life, including our curriculum, assemblies, relationships, policies and everyday interactions.

The Department for Education identifies these fundamental British values within its guidance on promoting them in schools, building on the 2011 Prevent Strategy. At Parkgate Primary School, we actively promote these values to ensure that all pupils understand their importance and are equipped to contribute positively to modern British society.

We promote these values in the following ways:

Democracy

We believe that every pupil should have a voice and feel that their opinions matter. Children are encouraged to express their views, listen to others and understand that different opinions should be respected.

Democracy is promoted through opportunities such as our School Council and Eco Club, where pupils are encouraged to share ideas, contribute to decision-making and take responsibility for improving our school and environment. School Council representatives are elected through a democratic voting process, helping pupils understand the importance of fair elections, representation and collective responsibility.

Pupils are also encouraged to participate in discussions, debates and activities where they can express their views and consider alternative perspectives.

The Rule of Law

We help pupils understand the importance of rules and laws in maintaining a safe, fair and orderly society. Through our school rules, behaviour expectations and wider curriculum, children learn why rules are necessary, how they protect individuals and communities, and the responsibilities that come with living within a society.

Pupils are encouraged to understand the consequences of their actions and recognise the importance of making positive choices. We also explore the role of laws in the wider community and society, helping children develop respect for authority, justice and fairness.

Individual Liberty

At Parkgate Primary School, we encourage pupils to develop independence, confidence and a strong sense of self-worth. Children are supported to make informed choices, understand their rights and responsibilities, and recognise that everyone is entitled to their own beliefs, opinions and individual freedoms.

Through our curriculum, assemblies and everyday experiences, pupils learn about freedom of expression, personal responsibility and the importance of making safe and positive choices. We encourage children to have the confidence to express their views while recognising and respecting the rights and freedoms of others.

Mutual Respect

Mutual respect underpins our school ethos and is reflected in the way we treat one another. We promote an inclusive environment where every individual is valued, regardless of their background, abilities, beliefs or circumstances.

Our school values, including Respect, are regularly reinforced through assemblies, classroom discussions and everyday interactions. Pupils are encouraged to listen to others, show kindness, celebrate differences and consider how their words and actions affect those around them.

We have high expectations of behaviour and promote positive relationships, ensuring that all members of our school community feel safe, respected and valued. We actively challenge unkindness, bullying, prejudice and discriminatory behaviour.

Tolerance of Different Faiths and Beliefs

We celebrate the diversity of our school and wider community and encourage pupils to develop an understanding and appreciation of different faiths, beliefs, cultures and ways of life.

Through our Religious Education (RE), Personal, Social, Health and Economic Education (PSHE), assemblies, Faith Days and wider curriculum, pupils learn about different religions, traditions and cultural celebrations. Where possible, children also have opportunities to visit local places of worship and learn directly about different religious practices and communities.

We encourage open and respectful discussion, helping pupils to understand that people may hold different beliefs and opinions. Children are taught to recognise and challenge prejudice, discrimination and stereotypes, developing the knowledge and confidence to treat everyone fairly and with dignity.

Our Commitment

At Parkgate Primary School, promoting fundamental British values is not limited to individual lessons or activities; it is an integral part of our everyday school life.

We aim to develop pupils who are confident, thoughtful and responsible, who understand their rights and responsibilities, respect the views and beliefs of others, and recognise the importance of equality, fairness and freedom.

Through our curriculum, school ethos and positive relationships, we strive to ensure that every child is prepared to make a meaningful contribution to their school, local community and wider society.
